2 leaders of Edsa I uprising unite against GMA

Formerly
New President Arroyo is back in the spotlight. She is now the target of a new wave of criticism, this time from the former allies of her administration. The two leaders of the 1986 Edsa Revolution, Benigno Aquino Jr. and Corason Aquino, have joined forces to demand the resignation of President Arroyo. The two leaders, who were once close friends, have now become bitter enemies. They are both calling for the resignation of President Arroyo, who they believe is a corrupt and incompetent leader. They are also calling for the restoration of democracy in the Philippines. The two leaders are now working together to bring about change in the Philippines. # PCGG eyes Campos properties in Texas

By Philip C. Reyes

MANILA, Philippines — The Presidential Commission on Good Government (PCGG) is looking into the properties of former President Ferdinand Marcos in Texas, according to a report from a source familiar with the commission's activities.

The source said that the PCGG is currently reviewing the list of properties owned by the Marcos family in the United States, particularly in Texas. The list includes several large estates and commercial properties.

The PCGG is also looking into the transactions involving these properties, particularly those that took place during the Marcos administration. The commission is concerned about the possibility of asset transfers and the potential for corruption.

The source said that the PCGG is working closely with the US authorities to obtain information about the properties and the transactions. The commission is also conducting its own investigation into the matter.

The PCGG is expected to release a report on its findings in the coming months. The report will likely include details about the properties and the transactions, as well as recommendations for action.

Ready for the quake?

NATURAL DISASTERS ARE NOT ONLY THE most common cause of death and destruction in the Philippines, but they are also the most preventable. The government has the resources and the technology to protect its citizens from the ravages of earthquakes, typhoons, and other natural disasters. Yet, it has failed to do so, leaving millions of people vulnerable to the next disaster.

Has Comelec solved all the problems?

The Commission on Elections (Comelec) has been hailed as the savior of the Philippine electoral process. Since its creation in 1988, it has been responsible for the conduct of all national and local elections. In the past, the Commission has been criticized for its perceived bias and for its failure to ensure the integrity of the electoral process. However, in recent years, the Commission has taken steps to improve its performance and to address the concerns of the public.

Loneliness in July

By [Name]

Loneliness is a feeling that is often described as a deep sense of isolation and longing for connection. It can be a fleeting moment or a persistent state of mind. In July, the summer months, loneliness can be particularly acute as the days are long and the nights are short. The warmth of the sun and the sound of the sea can be a balm for the soul, but they can also highlight the emptiness of one's life. Loneliness is a universal experience, and it is one that we all must learn to live with. It is a part of the human condition, and it is a part of the journey of life.

As a constable, I have seen many things in my time. I have seen the best of people and the worst. I have seen the joy of a child's first steps and the sorrow of a parent's loss. I have seen the power of love and the strength of courage. I have seen the beauty of the world and the ugliness of it. I have seen the light of hope and the darkness of despair. I have seen the truth of life and the lies of men. I have seen the glory of God and the shame of sin. I have seen the love of God and the hate of man. I have seen the life of a constable and the death of a constable. I have seen the life of a constable and the death of a constable.

Russia offers sharp reduction in nuclear arms

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP) — Russia's president, Vladimir Putin, said Monday that his country is willing to cut its nuclear arsenal by one-third, but only if the United States does the same. Putin said the offer was part of a new Russian security strategy that would also allow the country to withdraw its troops from Chechnya and other regions in the Caucasus. The offer was made in a speech to the Russian parliament, which is expected to vote on the strategy in the coming days. Putin said that Russia's nuclear arsenal is the largest in the world, with about 25,000 warheads. He said that the country is willing to cut this number to about 15,000, but only if the United States does the same. The United States has about 22,000 warheads, but it has not made any official offer to reduce its arsenal. Putin said that the offer was part of a new Russian security strategy that would also allow the country to withdraw its troops from Chechnya and other regions in the Caucasus. The offer was made in a speech to the Russian parliament, which is expected to vote on the strategy in the coming days.

Times reporter escapes Taliban after 7 months

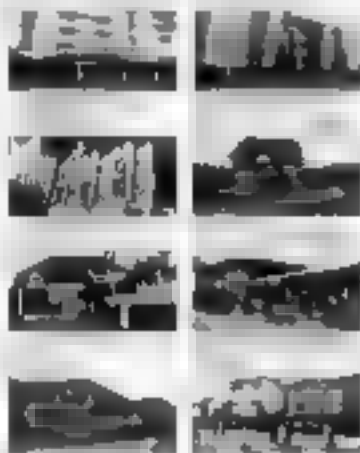

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP) — A Washington Post reporter, who was held by Taliban fighters for seven months, has escaped and returned to his home in Afghanistan. The reporter, who was held in a cave in the mountains near the border with Pakistan, was released by the Taliban on Monday. He said that he was held for seven months and was treated well during that time. He said that he was released because the Taliban wanted to show the world that they were not as brutal as they were often portrayed. Figure 1 is a 3D bar chart illustrating the percentage of total sample for each of the 1000 genotypes across four categories: 1000, 100, 10, and 1. The y-axis represents the percentage from 0 to 100. The x-axis represents the number of genotypes from 1 to 1000. The z-axis represents the category from 1 to 1000. The chart shows that for each category, the percentage of total sample is highest for the first few genotypes and decreases as the number of genotypes increases.

BETHPAGE BLOGGER

Campaign's over but I gave it a good run

By Angelo Ocho
ETHPAGE, N.Y. — I have been a member of the Bethpage Blog for a while now, and I have to say, it's been a great experience. I have met some really nice people, and we have all had a lot of fun. I have also learned a lot about the town of Bethpage, and I have been able to help out in a few ways. # Cebu power project secures P16-B loan package

By Remy A. Reyes

MANILA, June 22 (PNA) — A consortium of Japanese and Philippine companies has secured a P16-billion loan package from the Asian Development Bank (ADB) to finance a power project in Cebu.

The consortium, led by the Japanese firm Itochu Corporation, includes the Philippine-based Cebu Electric Power Corporation (CEPCO) and the Japanese firm J-POWER.

The loan package is part of a larger P20-billion project to build a new power plant in Cebu, which is expected to be completed by 2015.

The ADB loan package is the largest in the bank's history for a single project in the Philippines.

The project is expected to generate 1,200 megawatts of power, which will be used to supply the growing demand for electricity in Cebu.

The project is also expected to create thousands of jobs during its construction phase.

Toyota seeks government incentives for Prius

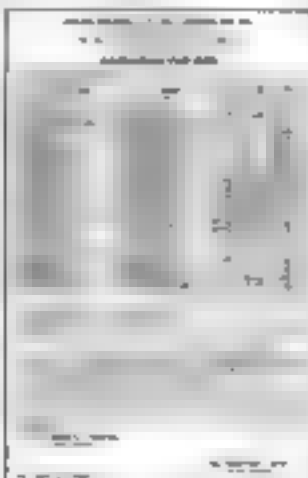

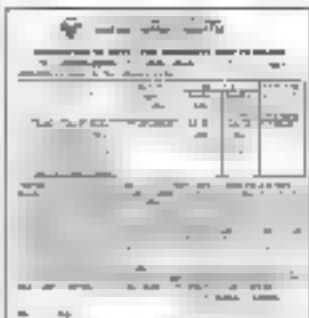

By Angela Lee

Toyota is seeking federal tax incentives for the Prius, a move that could significantly boost its sales in the U.S. market. The company is currently negotiating with the U.S. Treasury Department to secure a 10% credit on the vehicle's purchase price. This move is part of Toyota's strategy to promote its hybrid technology and reduce its carbon footprint. The Prius, known for its fuel efficiency, has been a popular choice among environmentally conscious consumers. Toyota's efforts to secure these incentives are seen as a key factor in its long-term success in the American market.

Toyota's request for incentives is based on the vehicle's advanced hybrid system, which allows it to achieve higher fuel economy than traditional gasoline cars. The company argues that such incentives would encourage more widespread adoption of hybrid vehicles, thereby reducing greenhouse gas emissions. Toyota's Prius has already received several awards for its performance and reliability, and the company expects that additional incentives will further stimulate demand.

Citing global crisis, Lexus again cuts '09 target

Lexus has announced a second reduction in its 2009 sales target, citing the global economic crisis. The luxury car manufacturer has lowered its target by 10% from its previous estimate. This move reflects the company's response to the challenging market conditions and the impact of the recession on consumer spending. Lexus is committed to maintaining its high standards of quality and performance while navigating these difficult times. The company's sales in the U.S. have been affected by the overall decline in the automotive industry, and it is working to adjust its strategy to meet the current market demands.
